TALIAN ADMIRAL OCCUPIED ISLAND IN ADRIATIC THREATENING PORT OF ALBANIA.

BATTLE IN FLANDERS

German Resumes Offensive and Are Reported to Have Taken Several Towns South of Ypres. — Report Ostend Evacuated.

Such fragments of war news as the censors permitted to pass today, indicated that along the North Sea, the chief point of present concern, it was still a battle of give and take.

Of immediate interest was a semi-official note from Rome indicating that Italy might take a more definite stand in the struggle. It is said that the island of Saseo, commanding the harbor of Avlona, Albania, ownerships of which has long been disputed by Greece and Italy, has been seized by Italian forces.

The French war office in today's official statement announced that the fiercest German onslaught shifted a few miles to the east and south from the coast, has met with success at points. Two towns south of Ypres in Belgium, just north of the border, are mentioned by the French as having been captured by the Germans.

Along the entire western front from the sea to Arras, the Germans resumed a general offensive movement, following the slackening activity of the last few days, but according to the French war office nothing has been accomplished on either side.

No word is spoken to confirm unofficial statements of last night that the Germans had evacuated Ostend.

In the east the battle continues without definite result. An Austrian defeat in the East Prussian front is reported by the Russian embassy at Washington. The last word from the Austrian government is that reverses have been suffered by the Russian at various points in Galicia.

Turkey's hostile acts against Russia soon may place her at war with all the allied powers. It was said at the state department in Washington today that diplomatic representatives of these powers were preparing to leave Constantinople.

The German point of view of the Russo-Turkish situation was presented for the first time in a dispatch from Berlin. Earlier advice telling of Turkey's attack on Russian points and vessels apparently placed the responsibility for hostilities on the Porte, but in Berlin it is stated that it was really Russia which started the war. Turkey's action is said in the German capital to have been a natural sequence to the "Russian attack on Turkish integrity."

From London came the suggestion that since no formal declaration of war has not yet been made by either Turkey or Russia, the German commanders of the cruises Scelen and Breslau may have acted without the authority of the Turkish government in precipitating the war. The Turkish army is said to be under command of High German army officers.

Italy is being urged by the new Nationalist party to plunge into the conflict in view of Turkey's action, touching so closely on the position of territory along the Mediterranean, in which Italy is interested.

The increasing confidence of the French is indicated in the unofficial announcement in Paris that the French government will return to that city from Bordeaux on Nov. 20.

AUSTRIANS ROUTED SAYS RUSS REPORT

Petrograd Claims Gigantic Victory Over Allied Armies of Germany and Austria. (BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Washington, October 31.—Stubborn fighting continues on the East Prussian front between Russians and Germans and Austrians, according to a Russian foreign office dispatch received today at the Russian embassy. The dispatch says that the Russians took 1,000 prisoners, according to a Russian foreign office dispatch received today at the Russian embassy.

On the East Prussian front stubborn fighting continues. The attack of the Germans near Biala was being steadily repulsed by our troops. On the left bank of the Vistula the German rear guard under our pressure fell back to the line near Lubek.

Among other military booty we have captured ammunition columns, heavy artillery and aeroplanes. Near Jaroslaw the Russian troops were intercepted on October 29 by our troops who had crossed the Vistula to the south of Jozefow under our cross fire and the enemy suffered heavy losses and we took 1,000 prisoners.

Capital Fast Returning to Normal Conditions—Will Move Government From Bordeaux. (BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Paris, Oct. 31.—Unofficial announcement was made that the government will return to Paris from Bordeaux on November 29 and the parliament will meet on December 15 to pass emergency laws.

Little by little Paris seems to be returning to more normal conditions. The shops in Avenue de l'Opera, which had their doors locked and windows whitewashed, have now been reopened. Each day another restaurant or bar in the boulevards or elsewhere resumes business, and the newspapers again begin to publish at the time of mobilization have begun to appear again. The question of reopening the bourse has also been discussed.

CONCERT DURING NIGHT BATTLE HELPS GERMAN DRIVE BACK THE FRENCH

Berlin, October 31.—A concert in the firing line is thus described by bandmaster Adolf Becker with one of the German armies in France: "After a long march we went into camp at night and at 2:30 we were suddenly and rudely wakened up; our outposts had come into touch with strong French forces, and the whole camp suddenly became alive. A sharp fight was soon in progress. The French artillery was firing incessantly from a covered position. Their shells came with a sharp whizz, to explode with a mighty crash. Their infantry also kept up a hot fire. I went forward with my musicians in a covered position and met Col. von R— who ordered me to contribute my part to this infernal concert."

"I crawled forward therefore with the most advanced trench, ask them to get out their instruments, and we played to the great amusement of the troops the beautiful melody of 'The Blue Bird.' After some time the moon came out from behind a thick bank of cloud and lit up the battle-field with its burning shells, and we gave it a welcome with the melody: 'Good Night.' So quietly, the soldiers joined in with spirit. Somewhat later the French attempted a forward movement, and we promptly received them with 'Dolly.' You are the Light of my Eyes! The French did not seem to trust this assurance, however, for they hastily withdrew, to the resounding laughter of our men, who did splendid shooting in order to make it clear to the French that they had in their front I next struck up the fiery Radezki March; and just as the rising sun was coloring the east blood-red I closed the concert with the popular chorale: 'For Beams the Morning Star.' Many of the soldiers, holding their rifles in firing position, joined in lustily."

Becker has recently received the Iron Cross in recognition of his bravery.

COPPER BOAT CASE OPENS U. S. PROTEST TO ENGLAND TODAY

Formal Remonstrance Made To Great Britain in Detention of American Shipping Interests. (BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Washington, Oct. 31.—Formal protest to the British government against the detention of the American copper laden steamer, Kronland, at Gibraltar, was made today by the state department through Ambassador Page at London.

Had Italian Steamer, Gibraltar, Spain, Oct. 31.—The Italian steamer Regina D'Ulizia and San Giovanni, were seized by the British navy as prizes owing to the fact that they were carrying copper on board. It is stated the vessels will be held pending a decision of a prize court.

The Regina D'Ulizia and San Giovanni were bound from American ports to Italy with cargoes of copper. Their seizure by the British brought a protest to the state department at Washington on October 29, from representatives of the American copper industry in New York. No official information of the seizure had been received at the state department at that time.

Hold Important Conference at Washington to Place Foreign Exchange Market on Firm Footing. (BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Washington, October 31.—Representatives of the English treasury, the federal reserve board and New York banks, continued their efforts at a conference here today to place the foreign exchange market on a firm footing. Parties to the conference were Sir George Paish, and Basil Blackett representing the English treasury, Governor Knickerbocker of New York, and A. H. Wiggin, and Benjamin Strong, Jr., representing New York banks.

Although the congress has pledged themselves to absolute secrecy as to any plans proposed, it was evident today that concrete proposals designed to meet American obligations to England have been discussed.

Washington, Oct. 31.—War department officials were interested but not surprised today at Col. Roosevelt's statement to Princeton students that he had seen plans of two empires engaged in the European war for seizing New York and San Francisco. How the colonel had seen the plans, members of the general staff have knowledge declined to disclose. They pointed out, however, that it is the practice of world powers, including the United States, to offer the world for the eventuality which war may bring.

STRICT LAW PASSED IN ENGLAND AGAINST DOGS BEING BROUGHT TO ISLE

Dover, October 31.—England has a law regulating the importation of dogs which has caused great grief to refugees forced to seek the safety of British soil. The law requires that six months before they can be given liberty in England and officials at ports of entry have no authority to waive it in any case.

Belgian women and children saved their dogs when war drove them from home and managed to keep their pets through all the rush and scramble of the refugees. But when other parts of entry they were told that English laws would not admit animals which were not held for six months.

A woman at Folkestone asked to be taken back to Ostend with her dog, but Ostend was closed. In fact it was probably in the hands of the Germans who held less terror for her than the order that she must leave her dog. Finally she consented to have one of her friends drown the pet, as she said she could not bear to have it locked up in a compound for six months.

OSHKOSH MAY RECALL COUNCILMAN LAMPERT

Movement is On, Although But 250 Signatures Out of Necessary 1,443 Have Been Secured. (BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Oshkosh, Oct. 31.—A recall movement against Councilman Florian Lampert has been started in Oshkosh with petitions in circulation for two days, said to be signed by 250 voters. It will be necessary to secure 1,443 signatures in order to bring about the recall election.

The charge upon which the recall is based is as follows: "That the said Florian Lampert has been an assiduous politician since his election to the office of councilman, and has therefore neglected his duties as councilman and rendered him unfit to impartially discharge the duties of said office to the best interest of the citizens and taxpayers of said city of Oshkosh."

The movement started with about thirty-five holding a meeting, most of them prominent in professional and business life here, and a group of representatives of different parties. Mr. Lampert was elected last spring and it is claimed that he has been active in a movement known as the Guardians of Liberty.

BELIEVE EMBEZZLER CURED BY OPERATION

Former Chicago Student Indicted for Swindling Placed on Probation by Court. (BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Chicago, Oct. 31.—Wm. A. Kaphen, a former student of Chicago University, under indictment on the charge of swindling, was placed on probation today on the request of twenty Chicagoans whom he swindled. The indictment was returned by federal authorities on Thursday, under an operation while in Wisconsin state reformatory which it is believed obliterated his criminal tendencies. He confessed to having passed up to $5,000. Mothers dependent for support on men who die in active service are not unprovided for. The wives of men at the front are paid out only $1.35 a week while the minimum weekly pension allowed to disabled soldiers is 50 cents. Mr. Barnes also promises to double the present allowance of 25 cents a week for each dependent child.

It is pointed out that the nation has to support these dependents in any case and to have the money for private charity does not relieve the country of the cost. An adequate separation allowance and pension would also relieve the men who are offering their lives for their country from the stigma of being objects of charity.

LORD KITCHENER'S LAW FOR 'NO FLIRTING' IS HARD FOR THE SOLDIERS.

(Correspondence of The A. P.) London, Oct. 31.—In order to help soldiers observe Lord Kitchener's law, which forbids flirting with women, the National Union of Women Workers has undertaken the duty of patrolling the territory outside the army lines. The services of the women police are gladly accepted, since the army authorities complain that the soldiers are being lured from Lord Kitchener's law by women camp followers. Not only young girls but the matured have been causing serious infractions of discipline at the camps, causing recruits to overstay their leave and thus become deserters.

Meantime, an effort is made to increase camp attractions, such as concerts, and to provide other means of diverting the men. The first woman in London took her station last week in the Old Bailey. Her special duty is to look after the cases of women and children who are being lured by soldiers. She is trained by Nina Boyle of the Women's Freedom League. The League has offered to provide female patrols for the London streets and parks in the interest of the army. The police department has not yet been accepted by the police department.

GERMAN SOLDIERS POLICE IN BRUSSELS KEEPING GOOD ORDER.

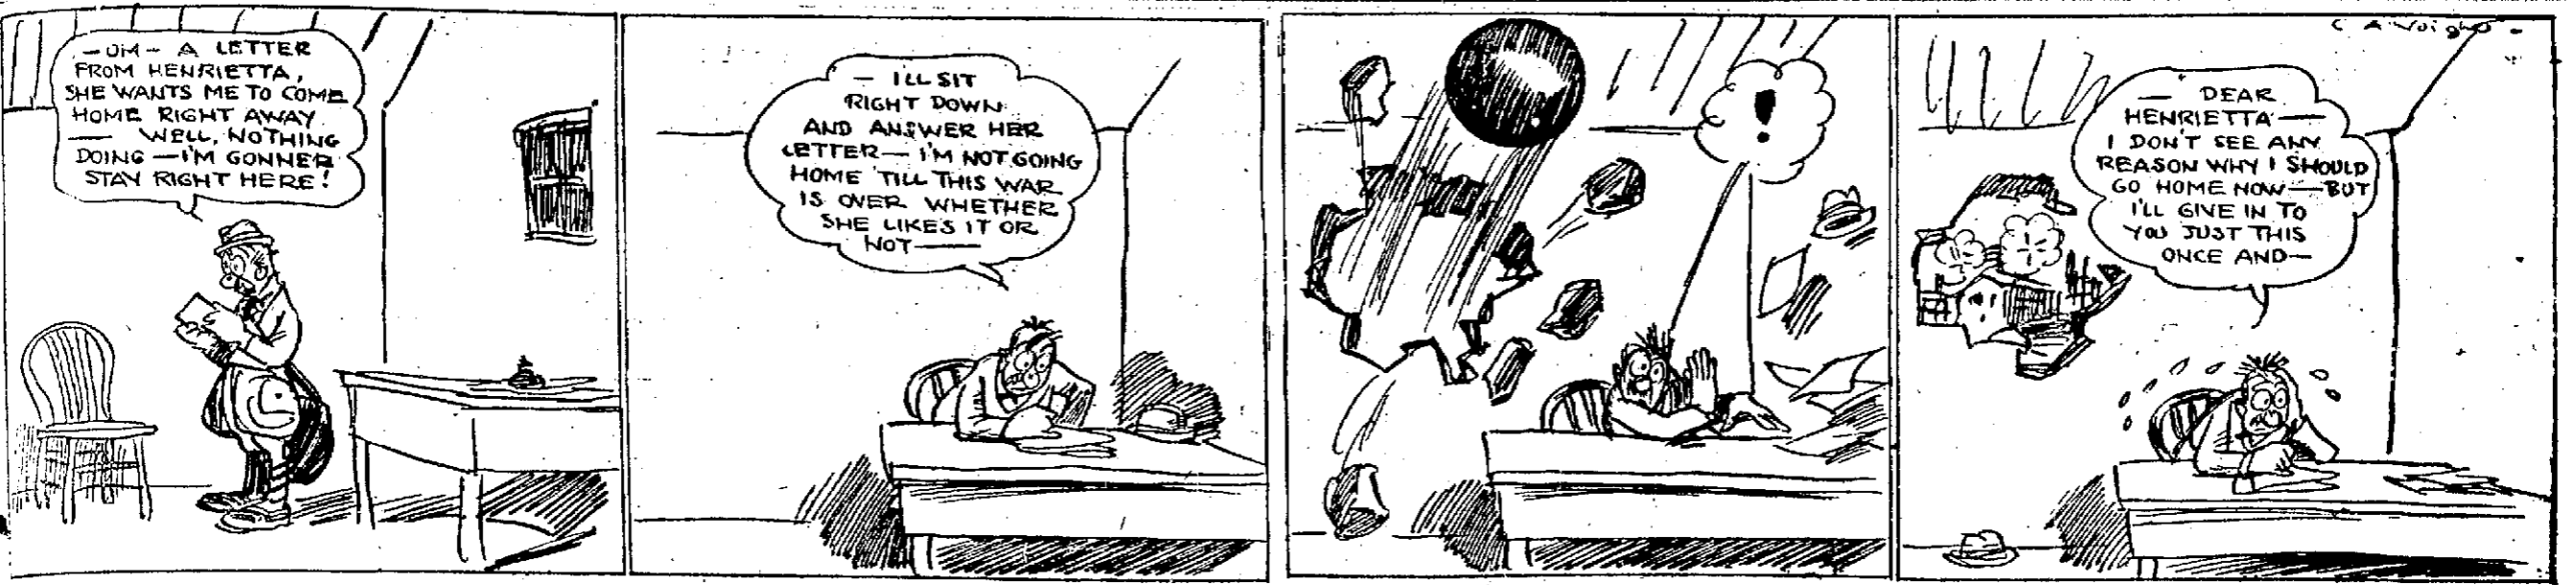

Brussels, Oct. 31.—Absolute order is maintained by 1500 German troops in co-operation with the Belgian police. Russian and French subjects, who are between the ages of 20 and 45, residing here, are being arrested and sent to Germany as prisoners of war. The German military government is enforcing contributions by dragging checks upon the banks and compelling the banks to cash them. No money may be paid out to depositors. English or French newspapers are sold surreptitiously at from five to ten francs apiece. The vendors carry on this trade at great personal risk.

Results Talk Mr. Manufacturer, newspaper advertising does not merely promise possibilities. IT PRODUCES RESULTS. If it does not, you have not used your opportunities right. The reason is simple. Newspapers not only reach the people who buy your product, but they also influence the dealer who sells your product. They link the dealer's push to the advertiser's pull. SALES MUST FOLLOW. Manufacturers interested in linking the dealer's push to the advertiser's pull are invited to address the Bureau of Advertising, American Newspaper Publishers Association, World Building, New York.

CHICAGO FAVORITES IN WISCONSIN GAME

Illinois Scouts Watching Play at Madison Today For Future Conference Title Game.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) Madison, Wis., Oct. 31.—This was "homecoming" day at the University of Wisconsin and former graduates and alumni in streams, cardinals, and the stands at Camp Randall for the Chicago game, always the biggest event on Wisconsin's program.

Sage's men were slight favorites over the Badgers when the two teams met upon the field to the accompaniment of booming cheers. The Maroons' 21 to 0 victory over Purdue made them look decidedly stronger than Juneau's men, who beat the Badgers only 14 to 7. Wisconsin's weak showing against Ohio State last week was another element that made even the warmest Cardinal supporters a bit fearful of the result of this afternoon's game which was to play an important part in determining the 1914 western conference championship.

Illinois scouts were here looking over both teams. Minnesota sent down a man for the same purpose. It appeared probable that both Juneau and Stagg would be forced to show their entire hand to win this afternoon's game.

Wisconsin will not be represented by her full playing strength while the Maroons will have a well polished and perfect machine with Pete Russell as a pilot. The Wisconsin team will be to show some means of stopping Stagg's quarter-back, who has the pernicious habit of reeling off unexpected sprints. Chicago has shown no inspiring or marked attack, but her backfield works like a clock and are the best open field runners in the game.

The general feeling of the students at Madison is that if Chicago will win it will be because of the crippled condition of the Badger team.

MINNESOTA PUTS FULL STRENGTH IN FIELD AGAINST ILLINOIS. Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 31.—Minnesota sent its entire strength against Illinois on Northrop field this afternoon in a game that was to eliminate one of the contenders for the championship honors. Players injured in earlier struggles reported to Doc Williams, veteran coach, early in the week, got back into the lineup and were prepared to battle desperately with the Illini.

Zupke's eleven was attended by a big rooting contingent that made the long journey full of confidence that the Illini would win a decisive victory. In every game this year the Illini scoring machine has proven invincible and the Champaign lads believe they are certain of a conference title this year.

Williams was not optimistic over the Gophers' chances. He declared that unless they improve in attack they could not hope to win against the Illini this afternoon.

FOOTBALL SPOTLIGHT ON CAMBRIDGE TODAY (SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) New York, October 31.—The football spotlight today will be thrown on Cambridge, where Harvard and Michigan will battle in the second big clash between the East and the West this season. The East triumphed in the first engagement, Yale turning back the invaders of Notre Dame.

"Hurry Up" Yost's crew is feared by the Crimson. The Michigan mentor has never been known to turn out a weak gridiron machine and will be likely out of the lineup, the forces of Houghton will have a real battle on their hands.

Yale meets a tough foe today in Yale. The Blue, while being shaped for the big clash with Harvard, has not been weakened any for today's struggle as Colgate has a strong team. A complete schedule of all the bowl games follows.

STOUGHTON SWAMPS BLUE ELEVEN 55-7

Janesville High's Defense Goes to Pieces Before Sturdy Swedes Who Score Almost at Will.

Janesville high school's football team had no chance at Stoughton yesterday against the high school "swedes" of that place. The final score was 55 to 7, Janesville securing her only score in the second period, when a pass from Captain Stewart to Cronin counted. More kicked the goal.

With a brilliant backfield, and with a first-class coach, "Slam" Anderson by name, of the Stoughton high school has been able to place in the field this a wonderful team that braces up on the defense, and one that tears up the sod on the offense. In Jerdee, fullback, and Sullivan, halfback, Stoughton has two worthy players, these same two men being largely responsible for the defeat of Janesville yesterday.

Janesville played in streaks. On offense, they could make substantial gains, either by line plunging or by the air route, but when the ball was in Stoughton's hands, the local aggregation fell in the enemy's line only to be trampled on for touchdowns after touchdowns. The end of the first half showed that Stoughton led by 25 to 7.

The Janesville players are discouraged. They feel that after four defeats, in as many hard games, that they should be able to play together on defense. As a good defensive team is always the successful one, the only way the blue can win a game is to strengthen its line. The backfield, or secondary defensive, were forced to do practically all of the tackling yesterday. The teams of former years, in comparison to their rivals were always on the job, and there must be some reason for the forefall of the 1914 team making such a discreditable showing. One more attempt to improve the weak spots will be made next week. The Beloit game will be played, if no other, say the players.

The Janesville team lined up as follows yesterday: Kakusker, J. R. Slawson, C. Schenck, R. G. Jones, R. T. Mooney, R. E. Capt. Stewart, G. B. Cronin, L. H. Dearborn, R. H. More, F. B.

BADGER-MAROON TILT REFEREED BY BIRCH

Former Physical Director at Local Y. M. C. A. Was Selected to Officiate at Title Battle.

The most important football struggle in the west today, between Stagg's Chicago University "Maroons" and Juneau's Wisconsin "Badgers", Madison, was refereed by a man who is well-known in this city. F. E. Birch, formerly physical director at the local Y. M. C. A., was the official starter, and it was his whistle that brought together the two greatest citizens in the west for the championship of the "big nine" conference. Birch is a graduate from Ohio Wesleyan, where he gained prominence as a gridiron star. He is a close follower of the game, its rules and changes, and his squareness was depended upon in the game today as being O. K. Hart of Princeton, a former Orange player, umpired the contest, while Hutchins of Purdue acted as head line-man.

CARDINALS TO PLAY AT NORTH END PARK

Janesville Team Will Not Play at Yost's, But at Final Game.

The game scheduled Sunday between the Janesville Cardinals and the Beloit North Ends for the championship of southern Wisconsin and northern Illinois, will be played at the North Ends diamond at a Beloit instead of Yost's park as announced. At first it was the intention of the clubs to play at Yost's, the diamond being neutral, but for some unknown reason the scene of the struggle was switched. The change does not affect the Cardinals in their confidence of winning, for the players are certain they will take the measure of the Beloit champions tomorrow.

First American Warship Built And Launched 133 Years Ago.

THEN AND NOW.

One hundred and thirty-two years ago today the 74-gun line-of-battle ship America was launched at Portsmouth, N. H. If the word had been in use, the battleship would have been known as America's first "dreadnaught." It was built under the direction of Paul Jones, the famous naval hero of the Revolution. When Jones returned from Europe in 1781, after his battle on the Bon Homme Richard with the Sepais, congress tendered him a vote of thanks and authorized him to go ahead and build the America to drive the British from our waters, but it took time then, as well as now, to build a battleship, and before the America was finished the war was ended. Congress presented the ship to France to offset the loss of the 74-gun French ship Magnifique which had been destroyed in Boston harbor. So the first line-of-battle ship the United States ever built never had a chance to show its fighting strength under the American flag.

Today the superdreadnaught Pennsylvania is to be launched at the converted East Indian, the Bon Homme Richard, in which Paul Jones first made the American navy a power on the sea. When the Bon Homme Richard defeated the Sepais the American nation numbered less than 3,000,000 people; today it has more than thirty times that number but it has a navy ten thousand times as strong as its little collection of warships in Revolutionary days. One of the smallest gunboats today could sink the whole fleet of brigs and schooners of 1776, and possibly whip the whole British navy of that day. A battleship like the Pennsylvania could annihilate all the navies of the world in the days of the Revolution. The Pennsylvania cost over $14,000,000, or enough to build all the wooden warships of the world in 1776. An hour's broadside from this superdreadnaught would cost more than it did to build the first American battleship.

Each of the thirty five guests were compelled to take a ride on the broom stick until frightened by several ghosts who were hiding in corners behind shocks of corn. The hostess had spent much effort to decorate the rooms with black cats, pumpkins and other appropriate symbols of the season. Stories were told by the light of burning alcohol, and each one "bobbed" for apples. All Halloween stunts were a part of the entertainment, and the young ladies think they were well entertained by the three hostesses.

POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENT—Written and publication authorized by A. M. Paul and to be paid for by him at 40 cents per inch.

ALEXANDER M. PAUL, Democratic Candidate For Re-Election As MEMBER OF THE ASSEMBLY 1st. District.

He believes that the State taxes are exorbitant, and must be lowered. He voted against the large appropriation bills for the University. He favors a revision of the present highway law, so that the people's money may be expended by the local authorities, and for this reason voted against the large appropriations for State aid. He voted against 21 other large appropriations. He believes that the sessions of the Legislature should be limited by law to 90 days. He believes that every appropriation bill should be voted upon separately, and is against the present practice of including all appropriations into one so-called "Budget Appropriation Bill." His record in the Legislature shows that he is not controlled by any clique, faction or private interests.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

If I knew you and you knew me
I'll bet we would not disagree;
If we had grasped each other's hand
We could not fail to understand
That each intends to do what's right
And treat the other square and white.

If one in shipping made mistake
Or in a bill should error make Less irritation there would be
If I knew you and you knew me.

Or when checks due don't come on time
And those who owe don't make a sign;
I sure would save anxiety
If I knew you and you knew me.

When business pushes us along
Sometimes some things will just go Wrong;
Sometimes the fault all seems out
There.

Sometimes, alas, it's all right here.
I would need no other remedy
If I knew you and you knew me.

So henceforth friends, let it be known
That each has troubles of his own.
Troubles that would be useless to
If I knew you and you knew me.
—Author Unknown.

This choice sentiment, so well expressed, is being sent out by a manufacturer to the trade, and while it has a business slant, the principle expressed applies to the associations of life, from the close communion in the home, to every channel where elbows touch elbows in the busy struggle for existence.

Two boys, past middle life, were so impressed with the tribute to their father's memory, by the community where he had long resided, that they said, as they looked into the open grave: "We never knew our father!" And yet he had toiled and sacrificed for them for half a century.

There are many boys more ignorant and less appreciative, to whom the father becomes "the old man" before they leave school, and who is only tolerated so long as the supply of pocket money holds out. This is not always the boy's fault, for many fathers lack the happy faculty of getting close enough to their boys to become acquainted with their inner life.

With the mother it is different, for every boy knows his mother. He discovers, early in life, that his mother's heart lies close to the surface, and is so full of sympathy that it always responds to the touch of appeal. The mother is the go-between through which the boy reaches his father, when all other efforts fail.

The boy problem, by the way, is the greatest problem which confronts society today. During the present week three or four boys in their teens have been sentenced to the reformatory or state prison for crimes committed. Public safety and public morals demand stringent action, but how about the boy? Who is responsible for his unfortunate condition? It was somebody's business to know him, at a time when he needed a father or a big brother to tide him over the shoals and pitfalls of the most dangerous period in life.

The argument is used, of course, that the church and the Y. M. C. A. are charged in this kind of work, but it is a long stride from the church to the school, and about as long from the Y. M. C. A. to the same resort, and this long gap between the forces of good and evil is where criminals breed and graduate.

The church offers no attraction to this class of boys, and never will until it keeps open house seven days of the week, and is thoroughly equipped with the innocent amusements that appeal to boy life. The boy must be caught before he can be reclaimed, and the machinery is not adapted to the catching. The model church of the future, will be a boy's church, as it should be. The boys of today will be the men of tomorrow and every interest centers in their well-being.

The Y. M. C. A. is doing good work for a class of boys whose people are able to pay for the service rendered, but there are hundreds of boys in Janesville, and every other inland city, who lack the price, even if they had the inclination to join the association.

This means that here is a field of philanthropy unoccupied, and no better work could be done than to provide a fund for the benefit of this class of boys in association work. The Y. M. C. A. is not the church, belongs to the people—not to a part of them, but to all of them. There is every reason why the service and equipment should be made available for the class of boys who need it the most.

There will be less boy criminals in the courts when some big brother comes to the front and lends a hand. This is what the neglected boy needs. Somebody to know him and take an interest in him. There are many fatherless boys who are not orphans. The average father fails to get very close to his boy, and this is not the boy's fault.

On general principles we do not know very much about each other, and this lack of knowledge results in hasty judgment and all sorts of mischief. It is an old saying that the estimate of public opinion on character is usually right, and it is so much easier to accept it than to investigate that the verdict is likely to be final.

But there are many exceptions to this wholesale verdict, and people often go through life under a cloud, because reputation was tarnished early in the conflict. If any of us were perfect we might be censured with some grace, but the stamp of perfection is missing.

There are a few people so conceited as to believe they are perfect, and they occupy a pedestal above the common herd, and assume to be censors, but they are simply deluded, and will usually bear watching. Goodness, like honesty, advertises itself, and when placards are used there is always cause for suspicion.

Human nature is very much alike, the world over, and the environment which surrounds us, less much to do with development. Many of us have kept out of jail because we never had a good chance to get in, and yet we lack sympathy for the boy who yields to regular temptation and pays the penalty.

"Put yourself in his place" is the title of an old story, written many years ago. If the book is still on the market, it would pay some of us to read it, because it deals with human nature at its weak points, and shows how easy it is to go astray.

Until the world's greatest war started us like a flash of lightning out of a blue sky, the theory was generally believed that the world was growing better, but the deeds of horror and wholesale murder, daily recorded, are so revolting that we seem to be drifting back to the dark ages.

It is now estimated that 4,000,000 lives will be sacrificed, and as many homes desolated, and all for what? Echo is the only answer, but murder is the only name for the tragedy. The people of the old world thought they knew each other, but they didn't.

It is possible that out of this frightful holocaust may dawn an era of peace which shall be abiding, but the wounds and scars will remain as a sad reminder of barbarism in the twentieth century, and generations yet unborn will find it difficult to understand.

What we need to cultivate in this and every other land is a broader charity for all mankind. "The brotherhood of man" is far from a reality, and will continue to be, so long as selfishness is the ruling passion.

MOORE IS PLEASED WITH ROAD MEETING

County Highway Commissioner Reports Profitable Visit to Convention in Milwaukee.

County Highway Commissioner Charles E. Moore returned from the road congress which was held in Milwaukee during this week. He reports a very profitable gathering at which many practical phases of road building were discussed. He was especially interested in the inspection trip over the highways of Milwaukee county, a number of which are built of concrete, a material which is proving most effective on highways which are subjected to heavy traffic. Cement is especially good material for the roads in Milwaukee county, according to Mr. Moore, because of the poor drainage.

OUR National Opportunity LESSONS for AMERICA from the WAR

WHEAT AND COTTON.

By Robert H. Benedict.

Our farmers have recently harvested a great wheat crop. At the same time, the wheat yield for the rest of the world is below normal. The world's crop for 1914 is 3,741,018,000 bushels. In 1913 it was 4,125,310,000 bushels.

The outcome is plain. The world must have bread, and our farmers will receive unprecedented millions for their crop. This prosperity will be shared by the rest of us.

The warring nations will buy 300,000,000 worth of our wheat crop. It is announced that 40,000,000 acres in this country have been sowed to winter wheat, and that favoring October rains have come just the right time to give the 1915 crop a good start-off. Fine!

Our national regret is that our southern planters are to have a slow time with their 15,000,000 bales of 1914 cotton.

Already plans are under way to form a $150,000,000 pool to tide the planters of eighty acres near Edgerton and will move there in the spring. Mrs. H. Hemingway entertained company from Monroe Sunday.

First come, first served on our Acorn Steel Range offer. We will sell 10 only at $37.50. Better get busy.

LARGE AMOUNT OF WORK ACCOMPLISHED AT CLINIC IN MONTH OF OCTOBER

The report of the free dental clinic for the month of October, the second month of its operation, indicates a large amount of work has been accomplished, demonstrating the fact that the clinic is filling an important need. The report shows that 27 silver fillings have been made; eight cement fillings; two cases of root fillings; three sets of teeth cleaned; thirteen sets strengthened. The clinic's equipment has been supplied with forceps so that dentists will not need to use their own instruments.

over with loans. The crop is bound to move some time; in fact, it is already starting abroad. While total figures are lacking, the export value for one week recently exceeded the previous week's export value by $2,000,000.

The widespread popular desire to help out the situation is no doubt bringing results. The buy-a-bale movement is being encouraged by purchases made by individuals and by large business institutions. The women of the country are trying to help by ordering cotton dresses and such other cotton goods as they can use.

Our American factories have hitherto used 40 per cent of the domestic crop, and the rest has been exported. The home mills may be able to increase their consumption this year. Certain it is that exports will be great in time, even if not as considerable as was expected before the war.

No doubt the south will build more mills of its own in order to handle a greater share of future crops at home.

That is the American way of taking lessons from adversity.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

CHEATING ONESELF.
A YOUNG man who had been a great success as a salesman for a big firm decided he would make more money if he set up for himself in the same line. He did so and was a complete failure.

And the reason was that he had not the same assurance and persistence in pushing his own goods that he had shown for his employer. The average person will work longer and harder for his own interests than for anyone else on earth. But there also seems to be a small class of people so constituted that they will not work for their own interests.

I know a woman who was left a small estate and who was thoroughly slovenly in her settlement of it. She was a busy school teacher; she hated the business details of settling houses and interviewing lawyers. And so she procrastinated until she lost several hundred dollars that she could ill afford to spare. Yet when this woman was made one of the executors of a friend's estate she was wonderfully energetic. She had declared that she could not get an hour off in the afternoon to see prospective tenants for her own estate, but she managed to find several hours to attend executive meetings and look after business details for her friend.

Again, I know a man who is thrifty to the verge of sharpness in all dealings which he carries on for his employer. Yet he permits himself to be cheated right and left in his own affairs, and not least of all by that employer who pays him a wage which is far from commensurate with his work.

Of course if one must choose between being careless of one's own interests and careless about those of others, it may be better to be careless about one's own. But why need it be either one or the other?

Remember, then, that you have a duty to yourself as well as to others. But if you belong to the class who are already fully conscious of that, don't take this as an encouragement to exaggerate that duty.

Heart and Home Problems

BY MRS. THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have one little boy and I have taken a great deal of pleasure in him. How can I tell of his mischievousness and his clothes and keeping him looking well.

He has started to school this fall and comes home every day with a new story because the boys of the school do not like to be teased. He is crying, calling him a sissy. Can you advise me what to do?

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I was entertained at a country home last week for a couple of days. It is the thing to do and thank the people for the kindness. Of course a party call is out of the question, as it is so far away.

Every guest should write to the hostess within a few days after her return home. Nothing can make the neglect of this courtesy excusable.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am giving a party for my daughter. She is too young to go out evenings with the boys and meet all the mothers whose children are invited. What can I do about setting the girls home safely, or if not my business to arrange this?

As hostess it is your duty to see that every girl has some company home. If two girls live in the same house, they can go together. If possible, find out just what the arrangement will have to be made about the matter early in the evening.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) What does it mean if a boy takes his cap off and waves it to a girl? (2) What can I do to know and like a girl? I am a girl of eighteen and the boy is twenty-one. Is he too old for me?

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am in love with a boy three years older than myself. He told me that he liked me. How can I tell of his mischievousness and his clothes and keeping him looking well.

The Wife's Money

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

After her husband's death, Mrs. Nichols obtained a position in the town school where she had been employed before her marriage.

When her husband was alive, she was content to be a part of her slender salary. When her savings amounted to $500 she began looking around for an investment.

She considered herself a good business woman because she understood all the small economies that make a man stretch and endure.

She attended a lecture on irrigation and the pictures thrown on the screen showed thrifty western farms of alfalfa or fruit.

The lecturer, assured them, "When you have your money in land, it can't get away." He assured them, and it sounded like a clincher of an argument.

After looking over all the literature at hand, full of glowing pictures of prosperity, she decided to buy forty acres. She was to have ten years in which to complete the payments, but five acres would have to be under cultivation before she could prove up and she must live on her tract thirty years.

She had to hire every bit of the work done at $5 a day for man and team. Her little board of money was soon exhausted, but she thought it would be only a short time till her alfalfa fields would be bringing in a ranch under cultivation.

The summer, however, was hot, the reservoir sprung a leak and the water was cut off to repair the damage, just when the young alfalfa needed it most. It shriveled up and died and the ditches blew full of the loose soil. She must begin all over again.

Her leave of absence had expired and she was so heartily sick of the sagebrush country that she gladly turned her back on it. In her comfortable home by rigid economy she was able to keep up the payments on the land, but there was nothing left to improve it with.

She tried desperately to sell it, but so many people in similar circumstances were endeavoring to dispose of their own land that the market was flooded. Her little girl was becoming a young woman, and money was needed for her education. What should she do? She went to a banker whom she knew and explained her situation.

TO PROTECT SHRUBS FROM JACK FROST

Washington, D. C., October 31.—When Jack Frost has visited the garden and checked or blighted the vegetation, the flower lover will consider what shall be done to protect various plants and shrubs. Jack Frost usually makes himself decidedly evident in the vicinity of Washington about the first of November, but farther north his arrival may be expected earlier. Different plants demand different treatment. Such flowers as peonies and hollyhocks will come up again the following year if they are properly protected during the winter, while others like cannas and dahlias which are more accustomed to warmer climates, must have their roots or bulbs dug up and stored in a cellar. At this season man's attention comes to the United States Department of Agriculture regarding the treatment needed by different plants, and the Department specialists have given the following suggestions regarding some of them:

Hardy Perennials. Hardy perennials that are expected to live through the winter, should be covered with a good coating of manure or other litter to a depth of three or four inches. This in more southern localities will hold the frost in the ground during the winter and keep the plants from alternately freezing and thawing; in more northern regions the manure will keep the plant from freezing to so great a depth that its water supply would be cut off and the plant would perish. This treatment is good for peonies, larkspur, hollyhock, columbines, iris, pattycondones, and perennial poppies.

Cannas Dahlias, etc. As soon as the tops of cannas, dahlias, gladioli, caladiums, and similar plants are killed by the frost, the roots or bulbs should be dug and stored in a cellar, where the temperature will remain about 50 degrees and should never go below 50 degrees or above 60 degrees. No more earth should be shaken from the clumps of cannas and dahlias than is necessary to remove them from the ground. The plants may be placed on racks or in slat boxes so the air may circulate freely through them. No frost must reach the roots, or they must become too warm or dry.

With bulbous plants, such as caladiums, gladioli, tuberose, etc., it is desirable to remove all the soil and dry them in the open air a day or two before storing. The killed tops of all vegetation may be removed from one's flower beds after Jack Frost has visited them. This is merely for the sake of appearance, as it has nothing to do with making the garden more successful the coming season.

Pansies. If pansies are expected to do well in the South they must be dug out in the fall, and need the protection of manure as do the perennials. In the South, pansies make the best show in the early spring, and later in the summer and autumn. North of the region from New York City to Springfield, Ill., pansies do better if set out in the spring than in the fall. In these regions the flowers will not be so vigorous by the strong sunlight and they should blossom all summer.

Geraniums. The ordinary method of carrying geraniums over the winter as used by florists is as follows: A few vigorous young plants are taken into a conservatory or greenhouse and cuttings are taken from these during the winter from which a new supply of plants is grown for spring use. The cuttings for the spring supply should not be made later than June 1st, if good stocky plants are desired for the next summer's use.

The ordinary householder who desires to keep his or her plants through the winter is not wisely the possessor of a conservatory where he can follow the method outlined above. The following suggestions may help him to keep a part of his geraniums, at least, throughout the winter season. Before the frost has killed the plants, dig up the geraniums and place them in a cool, damp cellar. This cellar should be cooler than that in which the plants are growing in the summer. In other words, such a cellar as is suitable for storing potatoes.

The plants may be placed in deep boxes, standing up and close together with a little dry soil about the roots. Geraniums are also sometimes hung up by the roots on the wall or from the joists. In spring, the tops of these plants should be cut within two or three inches of the ground and the roots again planted. A loss of half the plants is to be anticipated in following this procedure.

Household Hint

THINGS WORTH KNOWING. Cleaning Formula.—Will clean opera and party dresses and white cashmeres, and not fade or injure the finest of colors. Grate raw potatoes to a fine pulp and add one pint water to one pound potatoes. Pass this liquor through fine sieve and a cloth. Let it remain in a vessel until the fine white starch settles to the bottom, then pour off the clear liquor, which is to be used for cleaning. For white cloth use Wor. For dresses and walsis, dip a sponge in the liquid and apply it until the dirt is removed. Rinse in tepid water and iron on the wrong side.

CANNING AND PRESERVING. Chestnut Preserves.—Cover blanched chestnuts with boiling water and simmer slowly about one and one-half hours. Make a syrup of sugar and water, cook until thick, add equal parts of nuts and syrup and cook one hour. Strain out nuts and reduce syrup. Place chestnuts in glass jars, pour syrup over them, have it very thick and pour over nuts. This makes a very rich preserve and is delicious in puddings, sauces, puddings, etc. Quinces (two to use them)—Pare and slice thin some quinces. Pare and slice sweet apples thin. Dry in moderate oven, with door shut to exclude air, while drying they become white and nice looking. When wanted, stew with plenty of water and a little sugar. Good for the sick, in fever it kills thirst. Save quince seeds, dry them, make syrup by stewing them. Sweeten with honey, good for colds.

THE TABLE. Egg and Cheese Dish.—Cut slices of bread about one inch thick, scoop out center (being careful not to cut in air, through bread), then dip in milk and lay in buttered dripping pan. Break egg into each slice of bread, dot with salt, pepper and butter, sprinkle with grated cheese. Bake in moderate oven, or till eggs set. Serve hot and garnish with parsley. Makes a fine luncheon dish. Beefsteak Pie (French style).—Take lean piece of beef (rump or sirloin), cut in small slices; slice also a little raw ham; put both in frying pan with

Every Day Talks To Every Day People

BY FRANCES JOYCE KENNEDY.

Don't send my boy where your girl can't go. And say, "There's no danger for boys, because they all have their wild oats to sow." There's no more excuse for my boy to be low. Than your girl. Then, please don't tell him so.

Don't send my boy where your girl is sinning. FOR A BOY SIN, OR A GIRL SIN IS SIN YOU KNOW. And my baby's hands are as clean and white. And his heart is as pure as your girl's tonight.

Our forefather, Adam, had not been removed from the stage of life when the double standard of morality was part of our scheme of living. It has kept pace with our progress and while reams of paper have been filled with debates, ruses and otherwise, on the subject, this standard is still flourishing as nicely as any well nurtured plant.

This is, admittedly, a question that can be looked into from every angle of the pale of life. As we circle it, a new view may present itself from each side. Some claim a man, to be a real man, must be just two things. He must be brave and he must be true. A woman must be chaste and kind. Given these attributes in a man and woman, the ideal foundation for a family is laid.

This standard is not to be used vainly trying to settle the big issues of our age; the vital problems of the country—at least not in the larger bulks of the world. When these questions, or the currents that they have a power to change in human life, flow in and wash the shores of home, why then they become questions that are of vital interest to this space. Then, with a view to the eventual good of the class of people who are daily striving for a home of their own; a proper way to raise their growing families: a chance to make of their lives and the lives intrusted to their care, assets instead of liabilities to the community in which they reside—the question of the double standard of morality can be briefly spoken of here.

The home in which the daughters are carefully shielded from every possible contamination and in which the sons are raised to believe that they can change their morals as they do their laundry, is sadly lacking in the real foundations that are necessary to make a home. That is, the right sort of a home.

If a boy goes out and "cuts loose," someone is going to pay the freight. That is one of the inexorable laws of nature, and it is not a pleasant thought to entertain that while your son may go out and unhesitatingly break the laws of God, staying inside the laws of man, your daughter may pay the freight for some other woman's son acting in a like manner.

Women sometimes deplore their lack of room to do great things, their lack of opportunity to live a life that will be of real service. When every mother in our country wakes up to motherhood, she is as dangerous for her growing boy to roam the streets at night as it is for her growing girl—why, she will have entered one of the realms of real and lasting service.

Half of the unnecessary misery in this world—more than half—can be eliminated, if the mothers of the country stop long enough to look squarely at the face of the multitude and possibilities of their work with their families while their children are in the formative period. Don't send your boy where your girl can't go.

POSITIVELY MASTERS CROUP. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound cuts the thick choking mucus, and clears the phlegm. Opens up the air passages and stops the hoarse cough. The gasping, straining fight for breath given way to quiet breathing and peaceful sleep. Harold Borg, Mass., Mich., writes: "We give Foley's Honey and Tar to our children for croup and it always acts quickly." No wonder a man in Texas walked 15 miles to the store to get a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. Every user is a friend.

STATE VS. FEDERAL PLAN TO BE BIG ISSUE AT NATIONAL SUFFRAGE MEET

The leading issue that is to come up before the forty-sixth annual convention of the National American Woman Suffrage association, which opens at Nashville November 12, is whether the vote should be sought by amendment to the federal constitution or by state-by-state extension of the suffrage. Another matter of absorbing interest that will be discussed is whether the national association should follow the tactics of the Congressional Union for Woman Suffrage, which is slightly militant. Rev. Anna H. Shaw, president of the organization, is opposed to militant methods. Other leading suffragists who are in favor of the Union's methods are Harriet Stanton Blatch, Mrs. Ernest Thompson-Seton and Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont.

At a considerable distance from him a small disturbance had broken out—a clamor of protesting voices lifting about the rumor of the mob—as a number of men, case-hardened roughs one and all, began to force their way in a V-shaped wedge through the throng, making toward its very heart, the point on the fire-lines nearest the burning building.

What this meant, Mr. Barcus had not the slightest idea. But his attention was first attracted by the maneuver, then fixed by the face of a man who was following in the hollow of the V—an evil white face that seemed somewhat vaguely familiar, somehow reminiscent of something strange that had happened in the history of Mr. Barcus.

At the same time, at the point where the V had paused, a wild uproar lifted up and, coincidentally, a wilder confusion became noticeable. A cry was audible—"Firebug! Lynch him! Lynch him! Lynch the firebug!"—and at this the mob turned as one man and streamed away in pursuit of an invisible quarry, who chose to attempt his escape by a route directly opposite to that which would have led him within view of Mr. Barcus.

Startled, and of a sudden persuaded that there might have been more in his "hunch" than was sanely to be credited, Barcus started up and was on the point of stepping out of his cab, if with a rather aimless purpose, when he was stayed by sight of that evil white face returning the way it had come—still in the hollow of the flying V, which now made faster progress, thanks to the disorganization of the mob by the chase of the alleged incendiary.

And now, Barcus saw, the man of the white face was not alone. There was someone with him—someone whose head was bent and face concealed, but who seemed to be feminine.

And so, Barcus argued, why might it not be Rose Trine, suffering near persecution at the hands of her unnatural father's creatures?

He was too far away to make sure and attempt any interference; but he pointed White Face out to his chauffeur as the V reached a turning car on the edge of the mob and the woman was lifted in (unresisting and apparently in a dead faint), and when the touring car swung round and picked up its heels, the taxicab of Mr. Barcus trailed it as unobtrusively as if it was a pertinacious shadow.

Ten minutes later, from the rear deck of a ferryboat in midstream—a boat bearing back to New York not only the touring car of White Face, but the cab of Mr. Barcus—the latter gentleman formed one of a small but interested audience witnessing an incident of uncommon character.

He saw a young man, hatless, coatless, almost shirtless, tear down to the edge of one of the Jersey wharves, his heels snapped at by a ravening rabble, jump aboard a square-rigged vessel which lay moored there, and execute a maneuver of despair by climbing up the rigging in a hopeless attempt to escape his persecutors. They were too many for him, and what was worse they were headed by a squad of police apparently as grimly bent on compassing the destruction of their quarry as was the mob.

And they swarmed up the rigging after him without a moment's hesitation.

Hotly pressed, the fugitive climbed higher and still higher, until at length he gained the topmast yard; with three policemen not half a dozen feet below him and popping away for dear life, if happily with the notoriously poor marksmanship of policemen generally.

None the less, there was no telling when some accident might wing a bullet into the young man; and it was evident that he so decided.

For, inching out to the end of the yard, he waved his hand toward his persecutors with a gesture of light-hearted decision that unmistakably identified him as Alan Law to Mr. Barcus, and forthwith dropped to the water, feet foremost.

Alan later took the water neatly, came up uninjured and clearheaded, and without an instant's hesitation struck away toward the middle of the Hudson.

As this happened, the police ran to the stern of the square-rigger, unmoored a dory that was riding there, and threw themselves into it.

During the (to Barcus, at least) breathless suspense of that chase, the ferryboat drew steadily farther and still farther away from the scene. Barcus could not tell whether, as it seemed, the police-laden dory was really overhauling Alan, or whether the illusion of perspective deceived him.

At all events, it seemed a frightfully near thing when the interruption befell which alone could have saved Alan.

Out of the very sky dropped a hydro-aeroplane, cutting the water with a long, graceful curve that brought it, almost at a standstill, directly to the head of the swimmer, and at the same time forced the police boat to sheer widely off in order to escape collision.

Immediately the swimmer caught the pontoon of the hydro-aeroplane, pulled himself up out of the water, and clambered to the seat beside the aviator.

Before he was fairly seated the plane was swinging back into its fastest pace.

With the ease of a wild goose it left the water, mounted the long grade of an air lane, described a wide circle above the bluffs of Weehawken, and swept away southward.

In that quarter it was presently lost to the sight of Mr. Barcus, engulfed in light folds of haze that were creeping in from seawards to dim and tarnish the pristine brilliance of that day.

CHAPTER XXX.

Birdman.

About eight o'clock in the evening of the same day a motorcar deposited at the Hotel Monolith a gentleman whose weather-beaten and oil-stained motoring-cap and duster covered little clothing more than shirt and trousers and assorted oddly in the eyes of the desk clerk with the rather meticulously turned-out guest known to him as Mr. Arthur Lawrence and to the management of the hotel as Mr. Alan Law Incognito.

Eventually persuaded, the clerk yielded up the key to Mr. Lawrence's suite of rooms, together with two notes superscribed with the same nom de guerre.

Alan's impatience was so great that he could hardly wait to examine these instead, I was favored by being made an involuntary witness to your spectacular ascent, following your almost equally spectacular high-dive.

"But to business: my time is limited; in half an hour more I am to double in black-face for the purposes of the author of this melodramatic farce which you, no doubt, call the history of your grande passion.

"I mean to say—well, several things, to-wit: When I saw you snatched out of the North river I was engaged in trailing a pale-faced villain in a motorcar concerning whom you probably know far more than I; he on his part was busy being a bold, bad kidnaper: Rose was in his power, as we say in such cases. His intentions, however, were nothing more blameworthy than to return her to the arms of her doting parent. I know, because I sleuthed after 'em, even to the house of Seneca Trine. Later I sleuthed some more, following a furtive young man from the house of Trine to the office of the general manager of the New York Central, where he made arrangements for a special to convey the said Trine and retinue to Chicago and points West. It leaves at three this afternoon. I was unable to ascertain whether or not Rose is to participate in this heist, but I know I shall. On the off-chance of being useful, I have bribed the train crew to let me impersonate the porter. So, should you be moved to follow and succeed in catching up with us, and observe anybody who looks rather off-color in the party—don't shoot: the said party will be me.

"Yours for the quiet life,"

"TOM BARCUS."

"The second note yielded a communication written on notepaper of the simplest elegance in a woman's hand—a hurried scrawl:

"They are taking me West by special train—I don't know where or why. A servant has promised to see that this reaches you. Save me!"

Over this Alan wrinkled an incredulous nose. The hand was the hand of Rose, but the phraseology was not in her spirit. He examined it more closely and thought to detect beneath its semblance of haste a deliberate and carefully guided pen. He picked up the envelope to compare the handwriting of the address with that of the enclosure—and shook out a trey of hearts.

This last was covered, as to its face, with a plainly-written message.

"With the compliments of Seneca Trine to Alan Law. We are due in Chicago at eleven tomorrow morning and leave immediately for the Pacific coast via Santa Fe route."

Comparison between this and the message purporting to be from Rose distilled the conviction that the same hand was responsible for both.

Alan shrugged. So he was to be lured away from New York and Rose by this transparent trick, was he? No fear!

He glanced at his watch, finding the hour far too early to attempt what he had in mind.

With plenty of time on his hands, he gave the matter serious consideration and concluded to take no chances:

Man's answering to the surname of Coast; the same birdman who had come to Alan's rescue with his hydro-aeroplane.

Their arrangements were quickly consummated, Coast agreeing to wait for Alan with his biplane in Van Cortlandt park from midnight till daybreak, prepared if need be to undertake a transcontinental flight.

Thereafter Mr. Law proceeded to rehabilitate himself in decent clothing and his own esteem; after bathing, he dined alone in his rooms, from a tray; after dining he slept soundly for three hours—and may be thought to have earned at least that much rest through having been for four hours a passenger in a hydro-aeroplane lost in fogs that wrapped Long Island and all the adjacent territory in an impenetrable shroud.

Nor had this been all. Leaving aside all that had led up to Alan's rescue by Coast: the forced landing of the hydro-aeroplane for lack of fuel had taken place on the south shore of the Great South bay; a search of hours had followed before a boat was found to convey Alan and the aviator to the mainland; and a motor run of several hours had followed that, conveying Coast to his Hempstead hangars and Alan on to his hotel in New York.

Another man would have needed twelve hours in bed at the least to compensate for such a day: Mr. Law awakened in a lamb-like temper when called at eleven-thirty.

At midnight he committed an act of burglary, calmly and with determination breaking his way into the house of Seneca Trine through the area windows and basement.

Stories of the raw but patriotic recruits are getting numerous in England, and one is being told on the Liverpool Cotton Exchange just now with respect to a young fellow who was stopped in the street for failing to salute an officer. The volunteer confessed his ignorance of the regulations whereupon the officer explained the mode of procedure proper to the circumstances, and the two parted. The recruit had gone only a few steps when he was recalled by the officer, who inquired, "By the way, what company do you belong to?" "The Wigan Coal & Iron Company, sir," was the prompt reply.

Read this:

C. W. Allen, retired farmer, 468 N. Washington St., Janesville, says: "I suffered from rheumatic pains in my back when I bent over and my muscles and joints were twisted out of shape. My feet were swollen and the flesh under my eyes was all puffed up. I couldn't sleep well, my kidneys acted too freely and the secretions were scanty. The passages were accompanied by a burning pain. I had to be careful, or I would catch cold on my kidneys. I spent hundreds of dollars for doctors' treatments, but I kept growing worse. One day the doctor told me I would be dead in three months. I got Doan's Kidney Pills from the People's Drug Co., and they completely and permanently cured me. My kidneys have been in good shape since. The swelling has all left me and the rheumatic pain is all gone. I am hale and hearty, even if I am over seventy years old. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me after three doctors gave me up."

Side Lights On The Circus Business

By D. W. WATT

Through the courtesy of D. R. Morley of this city who for eight years has been the head blacksmith and harness maker with the Ringling show, I am enabled to give you the following details of the closing of the great show and the home coming, the closing of which was at Cairo, Ill., on Saturday night, October 24th, where the band played "Home Sweet Home" after the evening performance. It was then that more than a thousand people commenced to get their belongings together and start for their homes or for new jobs for the winter, as the case might be.

The show got loaded at about one o'clock at night and started on their long run for their winter quarters at Baraboo, a distance of 527 miles. The train was made up in four sections and an account of it being Sunday, and a clear track for most of the run, which they made in nominal time.

The sections were kept about one hour apart. The first one arrived in Baraboo at about 10 o'clock Monday morning, and pulled into the winter quarters at Baraboo a few minutes before ten. Considering that there were twenty-two cars in each train all sixty feet or more in length, and that they loaded, this was one of the best long runs ever made by the show.

For years back in the business many strange stories are told of quarrels of hundreds of boys leaving home and not hearing from their relatives in years, and one of the strangest of these happened this last season with the Ringlings. Twenty-one years ago James S. Miller, then 19 years old, left his home in Louisville, Tenn., to go prospecting in Alaska. He went to Alaska and met a man who persuaded him to join him in an arctic act with the Barum & Bailey circus. Miller joined. Two years later his friend died.

For the last twenty-one years Miller has been traveling with the circus, now known as the Ringling Brothers. In all that time he has not seen the mother and four brothers he left behind in the little town of Louisville.

After waiting for news of their brother, the family moved to Nashville. Two of the brothers, J. L. and Stanley, came to Chicago.

Last Sunday Ringling Brothers was playing in Nashville. Before the show a friend asked Miller if he had seen his mother. Throwing down a dime he said: "I don't know where she is, but I'll find her for you." He ran with the friend, to his mother's house—a few blocks away. His mother gave him the Chicago address of his first time in twenty-one years they saw their brother.

Seated at the dinner table with his brothers last Wednesday night, Miller told his story. He is now the head of the Miller family, with an income of $1,000 a week.

A few days ago a friend of mine said to me: "I don't see how you could sit in that chair and eat and drink, sell tickets and pay bills and count up your money and take care of everything exactly right, with the way of the side show band across the way, the side show talkers in your ears, and then the band in the big tent not so far playing all the time. I should think that a man would have set you wild." But do you know that my business as it came along was the only thing I thought of, and the side show talkers and the bands playing, why I never heard them. After a long hard day's work I could go to my state room and go to bed and though perhaps twenty fast railroad trains might pass us during the night, I would seldom make up until morning, and then would be as well rested as though I had slept. In some quiet out of the way place, and I think as a rule this was so with nearly every one with the show. Their own business seemed to be the only thing that bothered them, and when that was done, both body and mind were at rest, regardless of the noise of the surroundings.

Nearly everyone has seen trained animals of all kinds, elephants, lions, tigers, ponies and even pigs and geese, but I dare say but few people ever saw a large cage of trained canary birds. In a small town in Iowa years ago a landlady had a large wooden cage with perhaps a dozen or fifteen canary birds. These birds he had trained to both feed and water themselves. They would draw the water from the well that they drank from. The well consisted of a small tin cup about the shape of a hand goblet, and the bucket was about the size of a small thimble. This was attached to a string which was fastened in the cage, and when the birds would get thirsty they would take the thimble bucket with about half a thimbleful of water in it, and after drinking would drop the bucket back into the well, as the landlady said, and each bird would do once or twice a day, as they might need the water. A little small paper wagon about the same size was placed outside the cage on a little incline, and this the landlady would fill with birdseed which would hold the same as did the bucket in the well. And with the string in the little paper wagon, the canaries would get hold of the string and pull the little wagon up to the cage where they could reach it. This landlady took great pride in showing his trained birds, which he said were the finest in the country, and they certainly were a novelty to look at.

In 1889 we were billed to show in Gloversville, N. Y., on Monday, and arrived there early on Sunday morning. On arriving at the hotel I found that the Gilbert and Sullivan opera company were billed there for the week, and Verona Jarbeau was the star. She had played in Janesville several times, I know her and she was not long in telling me that she must see the great star of the circus. Jarbeau was a French woman and in private life was Mrs. Jeff Bernstein, and she with her company took in the matinee performance of the circus in the afternoon and stayed long after the show was over visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Forepaugh, for they had been friends for years. I collected well as soon as she had money enough in the hall show business, she would have a circus of her own, but little Jarbeau, who has entertained thousands of people of Janesville in light opera at the Noyers, is no more.

Verona Jarbeau, in private life, married a man named Bernstein, a theatrical manager, and a famous opera actress years ago, succumbed to a complication of diseases at her home in Nanuet, N. Y., October 16th.

The deceased was a very old and first gained renown in the Gilbert and Sullivan operas. She was the original Yum Yum in Mikado, produced by the Standard Company, and also took the part of Hilda in H. M. S. Pinafore.

rebuilt two years later, and fortified by Philip the Bold. The French captured it in 1746, 1792 and 1794. The famous battle of the Dunes, in which Maurice of Nassau defeated the Spanish, was fought here in 1600. Its lighthouse was erected in 1284. Shipbuilding, rope and net-making, and fishing are its chief industries. It has a population of about 4,000.

Dixmude—A town in West Flanders, Belgium, in the fertile district called Flandre, 14 miles south of Ostend and 12 miles north of Ypres, on the Yser river. It is a typical old-fashioned Belgian place, which has changed comparatively little in the last century. In 1850 its population was 3,200; today it has far more than 4,000 inhabitants. Dixmude is known for its butter, cheese and beer, and has an active trade in salt, horses and cattle.

JOINVILLE—A town of northeastern France, charmingly situated on the left bank of the Marne, 15 miles southeast of Paris, and 12 miles south of Bar le Duc. It was founded by Henry II into a principality in favor of Francis, Duke of Guise, and was later bequeathed by him to his son, the Duke of Orleans. It has been the birthplace of many characters famous in French history, among whom was Cardinal Charles of Lorraine. The town has a population of about 4,000 and is but little larger than it was in 1850. It possesses glass furnaces and iron works, and is a prominent center of commerce. It has a church some seven hundred years old and a hospital with a history of nearly four hundred years.

REVENY—A town of northeastern France, 18 miles west of northwest of Mar le Duc, and 12 miles south of the Forest of Argonne, on the Orain River. Its population is about 2,000. Much exploration for phosphates has been carried on in the neighborhood, and the heavy watches is the principal industry. A beautiful church of the 15th century is standing. Reveny suffered severely when it was attacked by the Swedes in 1640.

DOULENS—An ancient industrial town of northern France, a Roman station in the Middle Ages, at the foot of the mountain north of Amiens and 20 miles southwest of St. Dizier. It is a fortress of the third class. The town has had more than its share of vicissitudes. Dismantled by Louis XI in 1475, the place was burned by the Protestants in 1525, sacked by the Protestants in 1567, burned again in 1613 and captured in 1814. Its magnificent citadel, built by Vauban, was the scene of many political prisoners and is now used as a prison for women. Coarsely hempen cloth, leather, sugar, paper and cotton yarn are manufactured. The principal commerce is in grain, hemp and cattle. The population is close to 5,000.

BRIENNE LE CHATEAU—A bronze statue of Napoleon, at the age of 16, in this town of northern France commemorates the fact that the Emperor, when a boy, attended the famous military school there, which was suppressed in 1790. The town was destroyed by the Prussians in 1870. The town is 25 miles southwest of St. Dizier and 25 miles after he had left school, Napoleon returned to the town at the head of an army and administered a defeat to the Prussians in 1814. A magnificent chateau was built from the 18th century overlooks the town.

GIROMAGNY—A town in a mining district of northeastern France, eight miles north of Belfort, 25 miles west of Mulhausen and four miles from the Alsatian border, on the Savoureuse River. It is situated 1,550 feet above sea level, and has a population between 3,000 and 4,000. It is a manufacturing town, and there are many factories of thread and woolen and cotton goods in the town.

LA CHALADE—A northern French hamlet, on the eastern border of the Forest of Argonne, five miles south of Verdun, and 15 miles west of Verdun, on the Blaise, a small affluent of the Aisne. A narrow passageway entering the Argonne Forest is located near the town. The principal industry is an old abbey built in 1138. The town has a population of about 600.

George Kellogg Writes Of the Days of '49 and His Trip to California

Where did this gold come from?

How was it that Uncle Sam came into possession of this gold just before he gold was discovered? This same thing happened in the case of the Alaska gold mines. The surface or placer diggings of California extended all the way to the very top of the foot hills of the Sierra Nevada Mountains. It was deposited in almost every ravine, gulch, canon, flat and every hill side to the very top of the hills in the surface soil. The gold had been melted probably from quartz rock in the remote ages and was found in dust as fine as flour and in lumps as big as a pea. I have seen some of the old miners digging $12,000 a day, while I have no doubt I washed over with the muddy water. We had to use thousands of dollars of fine gold that could only be gathered by the use of quicksilver. The deposits of gold were found on the river banks.

The great unks that constitute the leys have proved to be rich in valuable deposits with gold from ten to twenty feet deep. For many years the great dredging machines are taking out of this soil that constitutes the best farming soil and vineyards and vineyards about $1,000 a day. They were doing this five years ago when I visited California the last time, and these machine companies wanted to dig up the water to the surface. These companies go out a man's arm, with a shovel, and put down shafts all over it and if it promises good, buy the farm, build a big machine right away and start digging. The water just rain the land after the shaft is with it, the surface dirt is all washed away and nothing but rock and stones are left behind the dredge. These banks along the rivers up in the mountains were often rich in gold, which must have been washed down from these mountains and hill sides centuries ago, and the supposition was the bottom of these rivers were rich in great lumps, the water could not move.

Those who were fortunate enough to get claims along these rivers were of their fortune in the bottom of the river. Many of these claims were watered and they could turn aside the water and get down to the pockets. Many companies worked these claims in 1850 and barely paid expenses. It seemed very singular that heavy lumps and large deposits were not found.

October 19th, 1849, I took a tramp down the river. No good prospects, back to camp, hunted cattle, had plenty of wild grapes that were as good as honey, and the worst of the fruit I saw in traveling one thousand miles in California. October, 22nd, drove down the river 26 miles, found no grass or water except at a ranch. October 23rd, boys returned from the river, heard of the discovery of gold on the Yuba, took my blankets and clothes and packed for the mines. On the 24th, an encounter with the Indians. October 25th, pleasant day. Came to a place called Feather River, prospected a little, crossed over to the Yuba, came 28 miles, saw an elk. October 28th, only a few miles trying to find a chance to mine. October 29th, a fine day. 32 miles could learn nothing of my brother-in-law. October 29th, worked for the Dam company at $12 a day. October 30th, prospected with pan, made but little. November 1st, $1.00. October 31, hired out to a company who were using quicksilver in their long Tom, they paying me $10.00 a day and board.

November 1st, rainy afternoon in cold, dismal California. Water interrupted diggings as it was on a bar of the river, and I started for Sacramento, the only P. O. in all that part of the country. November 2nd, only 15 miles, the roads so muddy. November 3rd, came to a place called Crater, rain part of the day. Lay on the ground under a wagon, rain all night, water all around me, and blankets wet. November 5th, came 14 miles to Vernon at the junction of Feather River with the Sacramento, across the river was Fremont.

November 7 found a chance to go down the river, came to Sacramento 27 miles, told my line at the post office. No letter. Again in line for a letter from John Crummer, but a letter from my sister, felt better; heard of a number of South Port boys at Hangtown. November 10th, got my pack on a team and started for Hangtown, rain, rain and mud, came ten miles to a nice house by supper, I was in a nice condition to appreciate a home. November 11, made twenty-three miles, rain, but weather better, said at a ranch; $1.50 for supper, $1.00 for breakfast. November 12, weather pleasant and hot, came to Dry Diggins, Hangtown 14-47 from Sacramento. Met a hearty reception from South Port boys, Mr. Daniels, my step-mother's brother, Mr. Richardson and others.

November 14th, got in with Doc Marshall and Hall to work; this lasted only till the 15th. Then found a chance with McCarty Bros. and who had laid in lots of provisions, had built a double log shanty, had suggested a man and his wife for cook, offered a woman with board and a woman cook for my horse and house room. I was mighty glad to accept the offer, the weather and the diggings were uncertain, and provisions were one dollar a pound, meat and potatoes all the same price. The 15th, $1.50, the 20th $4.75, the 21st $9.00, only washed one-half a day. Rain. November 22, cool, pleasant. Went into Deer canon where we could see the sun all day. The 23rd, $2.40, my share this day. 23rd, cool, ice, washed all day, $5.00. 24th, cloudy, washed all day, $2.80. Down town V. Daniels' mother's brother, had; three letters from home; latest date Aug. 13th. All well; a general rain; had a homesick miner. November 25, Sunday. Pleasant and hot. Found a prayer meeting and attended. November 26, worked in deep canon; $11.25 my half of the day's work. 27th, in deep canon, only $1.50; this half day's work. 28th, fairly pleasant, worked in canon, $2.80. 29th, still in canon, $2.00; left the canon. 30th, weather fair. Worked nearer home, $7.50.

December 1, cloudy, washed all day, $11.25. December 2nd, Sunday, foggy, cloudy and rain; attended prayer meeting; wrote letters home and to friends every week. December 3rd, $4.30, cool and rainy; washed part of the day, $7.60. December 6th, cool, ice, pleasant; worked only part of the day, $1.50. Every night we weighed out our gold dust. Everyone carried his dust in buckskin bags, and every day a pair of balances with weights which would weigh quite accurate down to five cents counting gold dust at $16.00 an oz. December 7, very pleasant, washed all day, $5.40. The machines we used in the gold washings were first a pick and shovel and pan to prospect with. We must dig most anywhere in a hollow or ravine on a flat piece of ground. Some times the pay dirt would be down two to four feet below common soil in a box of gravel and clay just above a hard pan or rock; this pay dirt would usually be only three or four inches thick; if it would wash out ten cents to the pan it would pay big to use a rocker, which is made like an old fashioned cradle with an open end, a ripple bar about three inches wide about midway the bottom; this catches all the gold unless the water is very muddy, then much of the fine gold washes out and is lost; the hopper of the cradle will hold a half bushel of dirt; this has a sheet iron bottom with holes about five-eighths of an inch through which the dirt, water and gold pass. Another machine for use on the dirt, while the one rocking the cradle shakes the dirt through. With this primitive machine one or two could work and make $10.00 each a day if the diggings did not pay that. We hunted a new claim sometimes we had to use the water over and over till it was thick with mud. At noon and night we would clean out above the ripple bar and wash it out in the water. Another machine for use in the men to work is a "long Tom" and sluice boxes; this is a wide mouth sheet iron sieve, holes about five-eighths inch, letting the water, dirt and gold drop through into a ripple box with two or more ripple bars above which if the gold is fine a quantity of quicksilver is put that gathers the gold, which is poured out and the quicksilver evaporated. Setting in this long Tom are sluice boxes of any kind, the dirt is shoveled, mixed and worked down to the long Tom, where a man stands to shovel out the gravel and pick out any lumps of gold too big to go through the sheet iron. I found one $50.00 lump. How many length desired into which the water is shoveled out with the gravel perhaps the best man who worked over the claim could tell better than I. The company of five with whom I was working giving half I made for my board had a long Tom and one sluice box; if we did not have a stream of water we could run into the sluice box and use one man's business to bail water into the sluice box. It was a good deal of trouble to drag these implements from one claim to another. The company would write letters and making the size of a claim sometimes a square rod, sometimes this included the banks if the ravine was a small one; if the miner left a pick or shovel in the hole his claim was sacred for the reasonable length of time. The jumping of claims often brought trouble, sometimes settled by arbitration, sometimes by a knockdown or by pistols. Shooting was a serious matter for every community had its vigilance committee, and many a trial before the committee was death to the intruder. Hangtown got its name from the execution of the orders of this committee. December 9th, Sunday, for every community had its vigilance committee, and many a trial before the committee was death to the intruder. Hangtown got its name from the execution of the orders of this committee. December 9th, Sunday, for every community had its vigilance committee, and many a trial before the committee was death to the intruder. Hangtown got its name from the execution of the orders of this committee.

December 10th, washed all day, $3.50. 11th, wind east, cloudy, washed $1.00. December 12th, 13th and 14th, rain all the time. 15th, cool and cloudy, worked all day, $3.18. December 16th, rain, snow and wind; attended on a sick friend, Huff, wrote and to prayer meeting. December 17th, rain all the time. 18th, cool and cloudy; worked all day, $2.75. 19th, rain and wind, worked part of the day, $3.87.

NOTICE OF GENERAL ELECTION

Office of County Clerk,
Janesville, Wisconsin, October 21st, 1914.

To the Electors of Rock County:

Notice is hereby given that a general election is to be held in the several towns, wards, villages and election precincts in the county of Rock, on the 3rd day of November, 1914, at which the officers named below are to be chosen. The names of the candidates for each office to be voted for, whose nominations have been certified to or filed in this office, are given under the title of the office and under the appropriate party of other designation, each in its proper column, together with the question submitted to a vote in the sample ballot below.

INFORMATION TO VOTERS

The following instructions are given for the information and guidance of voters: (a) A voter upon entering the polling place and giving his name and residence, will receive a ballot from the ballot clerk which must have endorsed thereon the names or initials of both ballot clerks, and no other ballot can be used. Upon receiving his ballot, the voter must retire alone to a booth or compartment and prepare the same for voting. A ballot clerk may inform the voter as to the proper manner of marking a ballot, but he must not advise or indicate in any manner whom to vote for.

(b) If a voter wishes to vote for all the candidates nominated by any party he shall make a cross or other mark under the party designation printed at the top of the ballot in the circle made for that purpose. A ballot so marked and having no other mark will be counted for all the candidates of that party in the column underneath, unless the names of some of the candidates of the party have been erased or a name shall be written in or a cross mark be placed in the square at the right of the name or names of candidates in another column. If the voter does not wish to vote for all the candidates nominated by one party, he shall mark his ballot by making a cross or mark in the square at the right of the name of the candidate for whom he intends to vote or by inserting or writing in the name of the candidate.

(c) A voter may vote upon a question submitted to a vote of the people by making a cross (X) or mark in the square at the right of the answer which he intends to give.

(d) The ballot should not be marked in any other manner. If the ballot be spoiled, it must be returned to the ballot clerk, who must issue another in its stead, but not more than three in all shall be issued to any one voter. Five minute's time is allowed in booth to mark ballot. Unofficial ballots or memorandum to assist voter in marking his ballot can be taken into the booth, and may be used to copy from. The ballot must not be shown so that any person can see how it has been marked by the voter.

(e) After it is marked it should be folded so that the inside cannot be seen, but so that the printed endorsements and signatures of the ballot clerks on the outside may be seen. Then the voter should pass out of the booth or compartment, give his name to the inspector in charge of the ballot box, hand him his ballot to be placed in the box, and pass out of the voting place.

(f) A voter, who declares to the presiding officer that he is unable to read, or that by reason of physical disability he is unable to mark his ballot, can have assistance of one or two election officers in marking same, to be chosen by the voter; and if he declares that he is totally blind, he may be assisted by any person chosen by him from among the legal voters of the county. Their presiding officer may administer an oath in his discretion as to such person's disability.

A Five-Room Bungalow—By John Henry Newson.

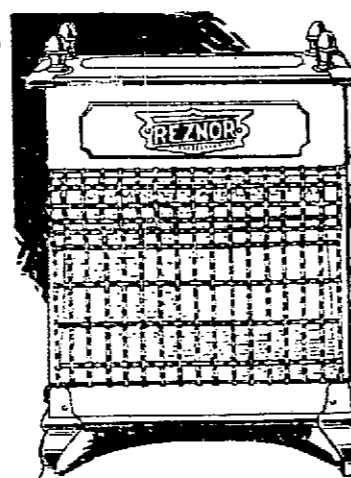

In this design we have modified the exterior to correspond with prevailing eastern types, while retaining the usual bungalow plan. The exterior is carried out in wide siding with shingle roof, and chimney and foundation in cobblestone.

The living room has light on three sides and makes a most attractive room. The dining room has three large windows, and kitchen is conveniently arranged with complete equipment. The bath and two bedrooms are connected by a small hall which opens off the dining room.

The plan is square and compact, therefore economical to build. It should be built for $3000 in suitable construction for a cold climate.

No. 198—Size 26x46 feet. Regular price of plans $25, specifications $5. By special arrangement Gazette readers may obtain plans and specifications of any "Home of Character" at HALF PRICE.

If you want more information concerning this beautiful bungalow, address "John Henry Newson, Homes of Character Dept., The Gazette." Always give the number of the house. No charge for Mr. Newson's letters.

AT THE APOLLO.

Musical Comedy Dramatizes Old Scotch Legend.

There is an old Scottish legend that a young sailor once rescued an old man from drowning and as a visible expression of his gratitude the old man gave the sailor a small statue called "The Naked Truth." Any person telling a falsehood within five yards of this statue would lose a piece of their clothing at every offense. Joe Edmonds has dramatized this legend and with Gertrude Lang and "The Girls of Bonnie Scotland" he is presenting a laughing musical comedy at the Apollo this week.

The sailor boy comes home and finds that his sweetheart has nearly forgotten him in her infatuation for a highlander. The sailor tells her that he will prove that the highlander is lying and the hilarious climax of the playlet carries the audience into rounds of laughter. Good singing and dancing make up a big show by this act of eight people.

Jean McElroy the girl with the harp certainly deserves every bit of the whirl of applause that is given her. She has wonderful talent and technique. She was for some time with the Victor-Veneta band.

Ben Horton can draw clever pictures with a crayon and mold clever things out of clay.

"My Official Wife." Clara Kimball Young and Harry Morey play the leading roles in the five part photo drama sensation, "My Official Wife" which comes to the Apollo on Monday afternoon and evening.

The story is woven around a beautiful nihilist, Helene Marie, who, in order to get by the Secret Police on the frontier of Russia, induces Lennox, an American, to introduce her as his wife in order that she may enter on his passport.

Arriving in St. Petersburg, Lennox is met by friends and is compelled to introduce Helene as his wife, also to register her as such at the hotel where he is stopping. Helene then discloses her identity. Lennox is shocked at first, but already deeply in love with the beautiful actress, decides to let things take their course.

What happens makes a most wonderful story and play.

"The Jungle" the daring expose of the beef packing industry and the blackyards, by Upton Sinclair, has been produced in a five-act motion picture by the All Star Feature Corporation under the personal direction of the great American play-wright and dramatist, Augustus Thomas, and will be shown at the Apollo on Tuesday for one day only.

Opposed by beef packers and everyone at all allied with the packing industry, the All Star Company were compelled to earn a full packing factory equipment for more than twenty-five miles and have it installed in working order in their studios at Yorkers, that the proper atmosphere of the packing machinery in operation might be presented accurately. Thousands of pounds of beef have been utilized, and has been actually mated and made, sausages have been stuffed by the near mile, hams have been cured and wrapped, in fact every branch of the great industry with which the picture has to deal, has been most faithfully represented, and under the supervision of trained workmen, accurately so.

In the leading roles of the moving picture production of "The Jungle" will be seen George Nash, former star of "Officer 666" and "The Gamblers," now starring in the New York City success "Fanthorpe," and opposite him Earl Kane, star of "Seven Keys to Baldpate," which has been running at the Gaiety Theatre in New York for the entire past season. Mr. Nash is cast as "Jurgis" and Miss Kane as "Ona."

No children will be admitted Tuesday.

Admission, 10c. Go Where All Janesville Goes—to the MYERS.

"The Jungle" the daring expose of the beef packing industry and the blackyards, by Upton Sinclair, has been produced in a five-act motion picture by the All Star Feature Corporation under the personal direction of the great American play-wright and dramatist, Augustus Thomas, and will be shown at the Apollo on Tuesday for one day only.

Opposed by beef packers and everyone at all allied with the packing industry, the All Star Company were compelled to earn a full packing factory equipment for more than twenty-five miles and have it installed in working order in their studios at Yorkers, that the proper atmosphere of the packing machinery in operation might be presented accurately.

Thousands of pounds of beef have been utilized, and has been actually mated and made, sausages have been stuffed by the near mile, hams have been cured and wrapped, in fact every branch of the great industry with which the picture has to deal, has been most faithfully represented, and under the supervision of trained workmen, accurately so.

In the leading roles of the moving picture production of "The Jungle" will be seen George Nash, former star of "Officer 666" and "The Gamblers," now starring in the New York City success "Fanthorpe," and opposite him Earl Kane, star of "Seven Keys to Baldpate," which has been running at the Gaiety Theatre in New York for the entire past season. Mr. Nash is cast as "Jurgis" and Miss Kane as "Ona."

No children will be admitted Tuesday.

Boston followed. The first season that a comprehensive tour of the country has been essayed, and the play comes to us fresh from its triumphant engagements to the four cities mentioned.

"When Dreams Come True," is a musical comedy with a blend of melodrama. The story is consistent throughout, in which it differs materially from most of musical shows, although the musical comedy features have not been sacrificed on account of the dramatic interest, but they have been so deftly blended that the play is a marvel of dramatic construction.

A large company, headed by Frederic Santley and including several players who have won distinction in musical comedy will interpret the various roles.

The singing and dancing features call for the service of a large chorus, which has been selected with the idea that they had to sing, to dance and to look attractive. The costumes of the play shows the very latest models of the late European fashions.

Relics in Day of Naples. No place in the world seems to have suffered so much from the sinking of the land as the bay of Naples, the paradise of the submarine archeologist, who is even now making fresh discoveries of buried suburbs and massive blocks of masonry with the stone rings for mooring the Roman galleys. But he has to dive to get at them.

KANSAS CITY TO OPEN NEW STATION TONIGHT.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Kansas City, Oct. 31.—A few minutes after midnight tonight Katy passenger train No. 26 from the South, will pull into the new Union station and Kansas City will begin the use of the third largest railway terminal at New York and the Union station at Glasgow, Scotland, are larger. Five million dollars have been spent for terminal facilities here by the twelve railroads owning the new station. And it contains every convenience for the traveling public. Proper celebration of the event begun yesterday with a reception of railway officials, governors, congressmen, by the commercial clubs; a civic parade; formal presentation of the station to the public; a formal dinner by Fred Harvey's force at the station; closing with a grand mask ball at the station, fireworks and the burning ineffable of the old union station, responsible for giving thousands of travelers a poor impression of the "Chicago of the Southwest." Today the station is open to the public for inspection, while the old station in "the bottom" is jammed and crowded for the last time.

TWO STREET REFUSE CANS ARE DESTROYED BY FLAMES

Last night the second refuse can that have been placed on the various street corners for waste material was practically destroyed by fire, the heat melting the top and burning the bag which holds the debris. The first can to burn was at the corner of Milwaukee and Academy streets, and the one he destroyed last night is at the high school corner.

The police are making an attempt to determine if the destruction of the cans was accidental or malicious and Chief Champlin declared that if the latter was true, the guilty party will pay for the damage. The receptacles have proved of great use to the city, and the people are urged to safeguard their use. They were placed on the corners to receive lighted matches, cigar stubs or pipe ashes.

Superintendent of Streets P. J. Goodman had the bags taken out of the cans this afternoon to forestall any Halloween "jokes."
